Brake disc removal and installation (per side)

Question

LABOUR Rs. 764.64

What this is

This work is done to take out and refit the brake disc so the braking feel stays smooth and consistent.

Why we flagged this

- This labour line suggests the brakes were opened up, but the bill does not clearly show what brake parts were fitted or serviced along with it. That can be totally normal, but you should get a simple parts-and-work breakdown. It helps you avoid paying twice or missing something important.

What to ask the garage

- For the Rs. 764.64 brake disc removal and installation labour, what exact work did you do on each side?
- Which brake parts did you inspect or replace during this job, and why are those parts not listed as line items?
- If no parts were replaced, what was the reason to remove and refit the discs in the first place?

Notes

Brake noise reduction additive

Confirm

PART Rs. 387.00

What this is

A liquid used to help reduce squeaking sounds from the brakes during driving.

Why we flagged this

- This looks like an optional extra added alongside brake work and a major service. It may be fine, but you should confirm what problem it was meant to solve and whether you agreed to it. Otherwise, you could be paying for a “nice-to-have” item.

What to ask the garage

- What exact issue were you trying to fix with the brake noise reduction additive billed at Rs. 387?
- Where did you apply it during the brake disc removal and installation work, and on which side?
- Was this included in any package, or was it added separately after inspection? Please confirm what I approved.

Notes

Major Service (15,000 km)

Confirm

LABOUR Rs. 1,014.80

What this is

A scheduled service package that keeps the car running smooth and consistent at regular mileage intervals.

Why we flagged this

- This looks like the standard paid service labour for your visit, and it usually makes sense as part of routine maintenance. Still, it's worth confirming what was included in this "Major Service" versus what was billed separately. That keeps the bill transparent and avoids overlap.

What to ask the garage

- In the Rs. 1,014.80 "Major Service (15,000 km)" labour, what exact checks and jobs were included?
- How is this different from the Rs. 354 "Service package (Service Plus)" line on the same bill?
- Which items on this invoice were outside the major service and why were they billed separately?

Notes

Service package (Service Plus)

ConfirmLABOUR Rs. 354.00

What this is

This is a bundled service visit that covers routine checks and basic upkeep to keep the car running smoothly.

Why we flagged this

- This looks like a bundled service-package charge added on top of the major service line. It may be correct, but you should confirm what extra value it covered and whether anything is being charged twice. A quick inclusion check can prevent paying for the same service under two names.

What to ask the garage

- What exactly is included in "Service Plus" for Rs. 354 on this invoice?
- Which of those items are not already covered under the Rs. 1,014.80 "Major Service (15,000 km)" labour?
- Can you point to the job card or checklist that shows the extra work done under this package?
